UP A TREE.

No one in Sammos could ever understand what pleasure Arthur Pervis and I found in taking long walks, or why we should do so, when we might just as well ride.

Everybody else, like most Californians went on horseback whenever it was possible, and a stroll to the post-office or along the beach was the utmost extent of pedestrianism.

But Arthur and I tramped the country in all directions, as we used to do at home, paying little attention to the mild surprise of the winters sojourners, who wonder at our eccentricity, and still less to the scornful astonishment of the natives, who can not conceive but one reason why one should go on foot—that he is too poor to buy or hire a horse.

One morning we started on an expedition to the Hot Spring canyon, in the mountains some six miles from town, intending to get our lunch at the hotel there, and afterwards to spend the rest of the day in climbing the mountains above, towards which we had always looked longingly during previous visits to the place.

Off we went, at our customary road pace of four miles an hour, between the pepper tree hedges of the town and out into the open country, where green grass and growing crops made it hard to realize that the month was a winter one, and that our New England homes were smothered in snow, with the thermometer very likely down below zero.

In fact, it might have been a little cooler without any objection from us, for the warm sun and breezeless air soon worked their effects, and when we reached the little hotel, precisely an hour and a half after starting, our crimson faces, relieved and set off by yellow dust, gave us a startling Indianesque appearance, which our tremendous appetite at lunch did not at all ill suit. However, after an hour or two we were ready for further operations the more so since, the sky having become overcast, it was much less warm than in the forenoon.

"Looks as if the fog might come in lacer," said the hotel keeper as we set out. "Keep an eye for it boys."

Arthur and I laughed. We were both from the eastern Maine sea coast, where for days at a time you can't see across the street so thick is the mist, and a light California fog did not strike us as very formidable.

"All right" we replied. "If we see a regular 'Eastport smotherer' heaving in sight we'll come back."

And, with another laugh, we began clambering up the deep slope, leaving host gazing doubtfully after as long as he could see us.

I must say that a more deceitful mountain than that couldn't be found anywhere. It hadn't appeared very lofty when looked at from below, but the longer we climbed the higher it seemed to grow, and there were so many ridges and gullies crossing its side that, what with going up one and down another, we must have gone nearly twice as far as if the acclivity had been smooth.

"This is more of a job than I thought," puffed Arthur, while we were resting at the end of the first hour,

"I should say so," assented I, looking up towards the top or rather where I supposed it to be, for another of those provoking ridges barred the way and shut off every glimpse of what might be beyond.

"If we don't hurry," continued Arthur reluctantly rising from the bowlder he had been sitting upon, "I don't believe we shall get there in time, for it grows dark early, you know, and I wouldn't be caught up here after sunset for a good deal."

"Same with me; the landlord says there are no end of gulches and precipices all around, and we might easy tumble in or off one. Yes we must hurry."

So off we started up the ridge, finding on crossing it, that there were, as usual, more of the same kind yet to be passed, running in all directions and pretty thickly covered with chaparral and stunted trees—a mixture of rocks, brush and steep banks anything but pleasant to contemplate for those who must either get through it or else turn back.

But neither of us being of the turning back sort we plunged into the labyrinth, with the result that after half an hour's hard struggling, we simultaneously stopped and turned to each other in complete bewilderment.

"Arthur, I think we're lost."

"And I'm sure of it Sam."

Well, that was just the state of the case. We hadn't the remotest idea where we were, nor which way to go.

Nothing was to be seen but sharp pinicles or long ridges, divided by deep, narrow gorges, shut in with bushes, and generally obscure and confusing.

Then, for the first time, we perceived that the sky was covered with driving gray scuds, flying so low as to almost touch the tree tops.

"We're done for," said Arthur, resignedly. The fog's coming, and in half an hour we might be blind, for all the good our eyes will do us."

"Oh not so bad as that," said I. "These fogs are nothing to what we've been used to."

Perhaps not; but you'll find this one will be enough and to spare, down here in these gulches, with night coming on, besides,"

There was something in that—a great deal too much, in fact,—and the question arose, what were we going to do?

"We must go down and get as far as we can before we have to stop. Then we must wait till we can see again."

"Which may not be till to-morrow morning."

"We can't help that. Let's go back towards the base."

"But which way is that?"

"Don't know. Come on.

And, with this unpromising speech, Arthur led the way in the direction we had come hoping to be able to retrace our course.

I followed though without any great confidence in his success, for we had become very thoroughly lost before being willing to acknowledge it, and might have travelled in circles ever since getting into broken ground.

We had not gone far before the streamers of vapor began floating around us like wreaths of steam. They grew longer and more numerous, until, without knowing when or how it happened, we found ourselves buried in a fog. And it was growing dark, too.

Arthur finally stopped and said decidedly;

"Sam, it's perfect foolishness to keep on in this way. We don't know where we're going. We're only tiring ourselves out, and the first thnig we know we may pitch head first off some precipice. Let's stop and wait for morning."

I was obliged to admit that he was right. Between darkness and fog, we could not see where we placed our feet, and all about us was as black as a closed cellar.

"These rocks won't make a very soft bed," I remarked, after accepting Arthur's proposition.

"No they won't; and I don't think it's safe to sleep on the ground. There are California lions around these mountains, and I've heard that rattlesnakes are not very scarce either, We must find a good tree and get into that."

Finding even so large an object as a tree is not always the easiest task in the world, when one can't see anything whatever, and we groped around unsuccessfully until we began to think that we should have to take our chances of California lions, rattlesnakes and any other dangers the mountains might afford. But just then I came in collision with something round and hard that gave me a severe bump on the nose.

"I've found one, Arthur!" I exclaimed. "Come along slowly till you touch me. I'm standing against it."

He did so, then assisted me to climb the invisible tree.

It was twisted and distorted, like all mountain trees exposed to high winds, extending out at an angle from the great rock under which its roots found nourishment, so that its inclined trunk and heavy branches made by no means the worst of resting places.

We stowed ourselves away in the first and second forks, glad enough to rest after our hard day's tramp.

Supposing the time to be somewhere about 8 o'clock, we would have to stay there for some eight or nine hours till sunrise, and the night air, combined with the fog, was cold and damp.

But, on the other hand, we found a few biscuits in our pockets; and our coats were heavy. We were not so badly situated after all.

Then too, the morning would probably be clear, and with the sun for a guide we could certainly find our way.

"Oh we can stand this!" we agreed, cheerily. It'll be a long night but that's the worst of it. It'll do us no harm, and will teach us to carry compasses the next time we go mountaineering."

In this frame of mind we prepared to tough it out. It was a long night and a most uncomfortable one.

At first we could not get to sleep, try as we would, and we talked and told stories for hours. Then we began to feel drowsy, and settled ourselves as well as we could to take a nap.

But the hardnesss of the rough wood and the frequent aches and cramps which ran through us made sleeping difficult, and even dangerous, for both of us came within an ace of falling out of the tree several times during the night.

Once Arthur, who was above, slipped and fell directly upon me, carrying me with him, and we both slipped some feet down the trunk before we could stop.

"Whew! that was a close shave," panted he pulling himself back again.

"It's I. "We'd have been plumped down on those hard rocks if it did."

"Well, it is'nt very far to the ground, fortunately," answered he. We're not up more than ten or twelve feet, I should say."

After this we kept broad awake and passed the tedious hours somehow or other, but they were the longest I ever remember to have spent.

It seemed to us that the night would never be over, and we were wondering whether the world hadn't stopped turning on its axis; when Arthur suddenly exclaimed:

"Why I can see you Sam!"

And as looking up I could just descry his figure and the shapes of the branches near him.

Hurrah! It was really morning at last.

The light grew rapidly stronger, and overhead the fog was breaking up. Strips of dark blue showed through the clouds, and we were now able to see quite a stretch of the ground over which we had come.

"Curious that it clears away faster on one side than the other," remarked Arthur. "I can't see a thing under us, while out the other way the rocks show as plainly as can be."

I looked down and saw nothing but fog beneath and further out.

"It is queer," I said. "I never saw fog cling to the ground so before in my life, still less only in one place."

Just then the sun broke through the vapors and flooded us with its brilliancy. I was looking up to get my bearings from it, when a sort of gasp from Arthur caused me to glance at him, first in surprise then in alarm. He was clutching the trunk with staring eyes, open mouthed and pale faced, a perfect statue of terror.

Hastily following the direction of his look, I caught one glimpse of what he saw, and instantly hugged the nearest branch like a madman.

Beneath me was an empty gulf, going down, down, till the tree tops at the bottom looked like shrubs, and through the thinning fog I saw that our tree grew out of the very edge of a sheer precipice hundreds of feet high, over which it hung like the arm of a crane.

Do you wonder that we were frightened, or that for some minutes we we clung there, trying to steady our swimming heads and brace our trembling nerves after the sudden shock of that sight!

What an ordeal that was getting off our perilous perch, moving an inch at a time, sliding, holding on, and finally making a last plunge to the safety of the firm ledge! We lay there half an hour before we felt able to move again.

"Think how near I came to walk right off the edge! I kept repeating, over and over again.

"And then that time when we almost fell out the tree together," Arthur said, shuddering. "Suppose we'd taken a fancy to jump down in the night!"

We safely descended the mountains, much to the relief of the landlord, who was about sending men to search for us, and drove back to town; but it was long before we cared to dwell upon the remembrance of that unconscious, careless and frightfully dangerous night we had passed up a tree.—Manley H. Pike in Golden Days.

FOR BETTER ROADS.

WILL A MACADAM ROAD PAY ITS COST EVERY TEN YEARS.

The following paper was read by Mr. S. R. Downing, of East Goshen, member of the State Board of Agriculture, at the autumn meeting held at New Castle, Lawrence county, Pa., October 23, 1889:

A prominent Philadelphia journal in a recent number asserts that the main country roads of Pennsylvania macadamized within the best standard would save their cost every ten years and their interest every six months.

In the report to this board, 1888, Secretary Edge approaches this statement very closely, I think, in saying that in the case of the worst parts of township roads a sufficient sum to permanently improve them is expended in temporary repairs every ten years.

Seing these statements falling from excellent authority and deeming them worthy of consideration, I thought that an answer to the question, "Will a macadam road pay its cost every ten years?" might prove both interesting and profitable.

There is a broad advocacy now by the press and our monthly publications of "good macadam roads." The stress seems to be for the best and in whatever I remember of the argument for good macadam roads, the proposition seems always emphasized that the best is the cheapest. And yet it is asked here and there, under the idea that economy means a low price, "Why should your mile of stone road cost $3,000, when $1,000 will build it?" It may be a matter of wonder with some that a man not overly rich will pay $8.00 for a pair of pantaloons when a pair can be bought for three. Of the two, the higher priced, as a rule, may be better worth the buying. A sixteen foot road composed of heavy field stone surfaced by a feeble scum of rubble may cost but $800 in the laying is but the beginning of its costs. As the $3 pantaloons must be restitched, rebuttoned, darned, patched, perhaps dyed, so with the low-priced road, the heavy blocks will rise, the small stone disappear and it will require great and continual cost to save the anatomy and tissues of those who travel over them from dislocation and disruption. There will always be complaint as to them, expense, discomfort in such roads, and the only remedy for the grievance they impart is to take up the roads to the utmost, grind and relay them Thus it is pleasant to note that there is a spirited urging of "good macadam roads."

The macadam principle may involve the higher price, but then it is an economic principle, costly at first but a source of satisfaction, ease, speed, saving in draft and money. The macadam road is simply composed of fine stone solidified, unified by pressure and bound with stone screenings.

AS TO WIDTH.

The only pike entering West Chester is single track. It is parallel within a radius of one mile by two dirt roads, and yet the pike has paid seven per cent., simply because during winter the travel centers on it, notwithstanding toll and the single track. In other words neither toll or single track, with its over-imagined difficulty in passing, will drive travelers to the dirt roads in winter however constantly the dirt roads may be scraped, drained and thrown to the centre. But in order to be within the lines of popular idea we will incorporate the 16-foot width road in my estimate.

A bed of fine stone, nine inches thick, well interlocked by rolling and thoroughly bound will easily have the resistance of a twelve inch bed of loose, large, incompact stone.

Mr. A. J. Cassatt was elected Supervisor of Tredyffrin township, Chester county, and again re-elected. He supervised the construction of macadam roads during his incumbency, and laid them, I am informed, nine inches thick on lowlands and six on uplands—an average of seven and a half inches.

AS TO COST AND CAPACITY OF MACHINERY.

A crusher that will crush eighty perch of stone per day will cost, with belting, $800. A wagon for moving it will cost $200, making a thousand dollars. As a crusher will turn out stone as rapidly as may be required by four townships, then each of the four townships by pooling would be at the expense of $250 in the ownership of a crusher. A crusher set on wheels can be transported by a traction engine as readily as a thresher.

Stone can be crushed at 15 cents a perch. Thus turning out 80 perch at 15 cents, the earnings per day will be $12, sufficient to meet three men's wages and the rent of and coal consumed by a traction engine.

Traction engines can be rented when not used in threshing. With the addition of a stone car, engines can draw stone to the dump and at the same time serve in lieu of rollers.

Stone can be hauled from the field or quarried, if not too hard, for 25 cents. Hauled from yard to crusher and crushed for 25 cents. Hauled to the road and spread for 25 and 50 cents, corresponding with distance, say an average of 37½ cents. The sum of these costs equals the cost of 87½ cents per perch. But in order to satisfy an opinion that may prevail that the crushing and delivery of stone will cost more, we will run the estimate up to a dollar per perch. Again, and in face of the fact that quarrymen are offering to quarry and crush stone at 60 cents a perch, which offer, of course, includes a profit, indicating that stone can be quarried, hauled to the crusher and crushed at a cost of about fifty cents a perch.

COST OF REPAIR.

As to the sum of difference between the cost of repair of macadam and dirt roads.

The opinion of Macadam himself obtains somewhat in this computation. He affirmed before a committee of the House of Commons that his experience proved that the expense of repair of stone roads was almost in the exact ratio of the sizes of stone used. Thus a road composed of three inch stone will cost in repair triple that of a road composed of one-inch stone. Then again there is a broad distinction of saving between a well-knitted, solid, iron compact of stone and a loose bed. And still again the upheaval of large base stones adds a considerable percentage to cost, so it seems that a macadam composed altogether of rubble well pressed is the one of all least costly to maintain. As proof of this the first macadam road built at Devon, Chester county, some eight years ago has not in that time I am told cost one cent in repair. Is it not then perfectly safe to fix the repair of a "good macadam road" at $20 per mile?

By a recent inquisition upon the part of our county commissioners made under State direction, I find after deducting the cost of county bridging, also that of street repair and construction, that township roads cost in repair and constructin say within a fraction of $1,800 per township. The average of mileage is about twenty-five miles per township, making the average cost for repair and construction of our dirt roads per mile seventy-two dollars.

Should any township propose to macadamize the roads selected would certainly be those bearing the heaviest strain of travel and traffic. Allowing that the cost in repair of our most used roads exceed the cost in repair of roads slightly traveled to an amount overlapping the cost of local bridging and township percentage in cost of new roads not separated from our general assessment, we still have seventy-two dollars as the average cost in repair throughout Chester county. Deducting twenty dollars per mile as the annual cost of repairing macadam roads, and we have fifty-two dollars as the average annual cost per mile in repair of dirt roads throughout Chester county. Thus the average ten years' saving on a mile of road would be $520.

AN ESTIMATE.

Thus, upon a further detail of saving in time and draft, which means the saving of money, and in the light of the average individual saving of farm owners, I think it would be found that we would average from our macadam investment an annual profit of one mill out of the difference in time and draft between struggling through bogs and gliding over solid roads. But in order to clear my estimate from the imputation of being wild, let us drop to one-half and conclude upon half a mill saved per mile annually.

To sum up we charge, say East Goshen township, Chester county:

To mile of Macadam, 16 feet wide, 10 inches thick, 2845 perches @ $1.00		$2845 00
And credit:
By saving in repair @$52 per mile annually. 10 years	$ 520 00
By ½ mill on real estate taxable value $639,429, saving in time, draft etc. 10 years	$3197 00	$3717 00
Leaving unexpended		$ 872 00

In order that this estimate may not altogether have a home application we will apply it to Lawrence county:

By the report of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, 1887, Lawrence includes seventeen townships with a total real estate taxable value of $13,309,837. Deducting the taxable value of New Castle, Wilmington and Wampum, leaves as taxable for township roads $10,013,111. Deduct for bridging, $13,111, we have $10,000,000. Divide this by seventeen, the number of townships, and we have say $600,000 as the average township assessment. Multiply by say two as the average mill rate and divide by twenty as average mileage per township and we have $60 as the average cost per mile for repair of township roads. Deduct $20 for repair of macadam roads and we have $40 as saving per mile by substituting macadam in lieu of dirt. We charge the township—

To 1 mile macadam road, 16 feet wide, 10 inches thick		$2845 00
And credit:
By 10 years' saving in repair @ $40 per year	$ 400 00
By ½ mill on $600,000 valuation saving in time and draft, 10 years	$3000 00	$3400 00
Leaving a surplus equal to		$555 00

If these estimates are but an approximation, with a liberal allowance at that, the statement of the Philadelphia daily that a good macadam road will pay its cost every ten years with interest every six months is reliable.

I have in mind a verification of Secretary Edge's statement in a piece of road that cost annually $125 for repairs. The piking cost $1100; thus in ten years the pike saved fully its cost.

HOW CAN WE ESTIMATE.

But then it may be said by some that this is after all but a matter of figures and speculation, but we find that a farmer in the prospect of a new barn gets the cost of lumber, stone and iron, sits with the builder, figures as to size, number of feet of lumber, adds up and concludes upon the basis of figures that the barn will cost thus and so. Is this speculation? True, costs may overrun estimates, but notwithstanding this we still figure as to barn and houses, knowing that such calculations cannot go far wrong. But figuring as to barns and houses is old, as to roads new, and certain citizens who guess that the cost of repair of the roads of their respective townships is but $20 when it is really forty, easily conclude that an estimate as to the cost of a macadam road is speculation.

Now there are certainly 5280 lineal feet in a mile; certainly 24¾ cubic feet in a perch.

The returns of County Commissioners are certainly reliable as to aggregate assessments. A two mill rate is as apt to be below as above an average, and 20 as the mileage per township is as apt to be over as under the average. Inasmuch as I have personal knowledge of a stone road built twenty years ago that during 12 years did not cost for repair that many dollars, I feel that 20 dollars per mile will maintain a good macadam road. As to thickness; I quote from the knowledge of men versed in road structure. As to the cost of crushing, I quote from the statements of three parties that now own and now run three crushers. As to the sum paid for and the capacity of the crushers, I have authority from two parties that bought crushers and use them, and so on.

CONDITIONS VARY.

But $2845 is such a large price for a mile of road as almost to discourage hope. Can macadam roads be built for less? Mr. Pope, the civil engineer, fixes $2100 as the cost of a macadam 18 feet wide, and in depth an average of 7 inches.

As crushers can readily be moved, hauls can be shortened to crusher and dump. Thus hauls need not be expensive. If one horse and one man costs a township three dollars a day, stone can be hauled a short distance for a comparatively small sum. Thus, exclusive of quarrying, I believe without further calculation here, a 12-foot width, 10 inch depth could be built for $1500. There are plenty of stone rows and banks of stone along roads that could be utilized. While as high as fifty cents a perch is paid for quarrying stone, stone in quarries of soft rock that I could name is quarried for fifteen cents. Or, if a contract is made with parties to haul stone, as high as seventy-cents or a dollar may be paid, but the price for hauling per perch at township rates and by placing the crusher close to the work, will be surprisingly low. Thus, I think, we come within Mr. Pope's estimate, which is that of a civil engineer.

There is another grant that I think we should ask of our Legislature, and that is that the burden of road reform should be shared in reasonable measure with real estate by personal and corporate property. As an indication of the drifs of opinion in this direction, I was glad to hear such a leading, active citizen and legislator as General Gobin advocate at William's Grove a State appropriation in behalf of macadam roads.

Race Peculiarities.

A striking salutation of the South Sea Island is to fling a jar of water over the head of a friend.

It is death to any person in Siam to mention the King's name. This is a custom that many other tribes rigidly adhere to.

At a marrage ceremony in Japan neither the bride nor the groom wears any clothing of a purple color lest their marriage should be soon dissolved purple being a color most liable to fade.

The Maoiris of New Zealand, while at war with the English, invariably sent a notice when they were going to make an attack, as if they were coming on a friendly visit and desired things to be ready for them. They thought it very strange that the English did not give them similar notice.

We are informed by an English journalist that in Paraguay "the lady of the house, as she comes, clothed in soft raiment and flashing gems, to meet the stranger traveler with mouth upheld for the formal kiss of greeting, removes from her cheek the quid she spends her days in chewing."

One who has been strolling about the streets of Honolulu writes of the native Sandwich Island that they have the brown skin of the Indian—not the black of the negro—bright, intelligent faces, and straight, black hair; generally with good forms, easy gait, and graceful in movement. The men have generally adopted the usual English style of dress. The wahines, or woman, dress with the loose holoku, or, as it would be called in this country, the Mother Hubbard, but close fitting around the throat. They generally prefer light colors in dress and wear flowers in profusion.

The Indians of British Guina have a game which resembles the civilized college rush or an old-time "hold in." It was witnessed by the auther of "Canoe and Camp Life." In the afternoon the youths and boys of the the place played a game over which they made a good deal of noise, and which they evidently enjoyed, as boys of any race do. They formed a line across one of the wide approaches to the village, while one of the strongest of the number made an effort to break through, by rushing against it at his great speed. Any man who approached the village had likewise to break through before he could enter the place.

The Frosen Cow-Boys.

SUFFERING OF THE MEN CAUGHT IN THE NEW MEXICO BLIZZARD.

TRINIDAD, Col., November 12.—The bodies of John Martin and Henry Miller, the cow boys who were frozen to death near Siera Grade in last week's terrible blizzard, were brought to Folson for burial. Four other men belonging to the same party are missing and it is feared that they are dead. It is reported by parties who know that at least twenty men are missing from this range and it is feared many of them will never be found.

Jolly and Wise, the men who escaped badly frozen, tell a heartrending story of their sufferings When the blizzard struck them Wednesday night of last week they were holding a herd of 2,500 cattle. The wind became a hurricane before morning, and when Martin and Jolly went on the last guard about 3 A. M., the storm was so blinding that they could not hold the herd. Jolly started to the camp for help. In the meantime Miller and Wise had left the camp to assist in holding the cattle. Jolly could not find the camp, and Miller and Wise could not find the herd.

All three were brought together by shouts and wandered around until daylight, when they found Martin. The cold was so bitter that the men entered a ravine, and, after fastening the horses, took the saddle blankets and buried themselves in a snow drift. About three in the afternoon—and it was only by the greatest efforts that Jolly and Wise succeeded in keeping awake—they were slightly apart from Martin and Miller, and had difficulty in talking to each other. The snow piled upon them to such weight that they were forced to seek another drift.

About 4 o'clock Friday morning Miller called Jolly and Wise and told them they had all better go, and when they crawled out they made a search in the drift for Miller and Martin. The latter only could be found and he was dead. They took the horses and started, leading them. Soon they found Miller on his knees, his horse standing in front of him as though trying to protect him from the cold. He was asked to get up and go with them, but he was unable to rise and was assisted to his feet, but could not walk.

Jolly started to get assistance while Wise remained with their dying companion. Both of Wise's hands are frozen, and he was helpless and was fast becoming insensible himself when the Mexican sheep-herder found him and took him to Rhodes ranch a few miles distant. The men returned to where Miller had been left and found him lifeless.

The cause of death was heart failure.

The Philadelphia Press of last Sunday publishes an expose of the vice that is covered by massage and bath advertisements. Five out of eight so-called masseuses were found to be women of bad character. Of course, all such things should be investigated and exposed, but it would seem from the reading of the article, that the investigators enjoyed themselves while in pursuit of knowledge on which to base the exposure. It remains to be seen whether the information thus given to the public will break up the massage business, or give it a boom.

There has been a revolution in Brazil, and the empire is no more. Dom Pedro who has been Emperor for more than fifty years, has been deposed, and he and his family have sailed for Lisbon. The name adopted by the new government is the Republic of the United States of Brazil. The national emblem adopted by the new ministers is the United States flag with Brazilian colors.

The change of government has been made practically without bloodshed and with the slightest possible amount of disorder After the first excitement caused by the declaration of the army and navy in favor of a republic perfect order was maintained. The imperial Ministry retired peacefully when informed of their deposition, and the Provisional Cabinet was formed.

WAHINGTON LETTER.

[From our regular correspondent.

Washington, D. C. Nov. 18, 1889.

Representative Samuel J. Randall is not making as rapid progress towards good health as his admirers would wish and many of them fear that he will never again be able to stand the wear and tear of active work in the House. Mr. Randall firmly believes that he will resume his work as soon as the House meets, and tells everybody who goes to see him that he is only resting now in deference to his physicians wish.

President Harrison took unceremonious leave of everything official last week and went to Maryland to shoot wild ducks. He left Wednesday night and returned Saturday night.

The republicans who have failed to get themselves appointed to office by President Harrison are rapidly announcing themselves as candidates for the three or four desirable offices under the House of Representatives. Among the latest in this category are ex-representative Gaenther, of Iowa, and Gen. George A. Sheridan, once of Louisiana, but now of almost anywhere, or everywhere. Both of these gentle men want to be elected Clerk of the House, and so do several others, including Hon. Ed. McPherson and Mr. Carson, both of Pennsylvania. There is more of a contest so far over these minor places than over the speakership. From the present outlook there is but one real republican candidate for Speaker—Reed—the rest are only mentioned to compliment them They will of course, be voted for on one, and possibly two ballots in the republican caucus, but on the third ballots at the farthest Reed will get two thirds of the votes.

Mr. Blaine and Secretary Tracy carried the delegates to the All American Congress and the International marine conference to the Naval Academy at Annapolis Saturday. Mr. Proctor, who has doubtles heard some of the criticisms expressed by thoughtless people to the effect that he was devoting more time to his private business than to the War department, has resigned the presidency of the Vermont Marble Company, of which he is the virtual owner. His son was elected to succeed him, and there are people here who believe it only a little trick to blind public opinion. We shall be able to see whether they are right or wrong later on.

Some surprise had been created here by the anouncement that Judge McCrary, of Iowa, stood a fair chance of receiving an appointment to the vacancy in the Supreme Court. He served several terms in the House but is best remembered here as Hayes's Secretary of war. At present he is a railroad lawyer at Kansas City. The Judge had been regarded as a political "backnumber".

The Eleventh Census.

SUPERINTENDENT PORTER EXPECTS IT TO BE THE MOST COMPLETE EVER PUBLISHED.

Robert P. Porter, superintendent of the eleventh census, in his report to the Secretary of the Interior, suggests that the delay accompanying the printing of the tenth census be avoided by having the printing for this census done by private contract, or letting the Census Bureau print them itself.

The census, in addition to the population and other things usually given, will ascertain the language spoken by every person of 10 years of age and upward; a most complete classification of occupations; the names, organizations and length of service of surviving veterans of the war; the financial condition of every county, city, town and incorporated villiage in the country.

Labor organizations have asked that the census show what percentage of the people in this country occupy their own farms and homes, etc. The Superintendent is willing to undertake the inquiry if Congress will grant the authority and provide money to pay for the enumeration.

The Superintendent says that if satisfactory arrangements can only be made for prompt publication of the results he is confident that the eleventh census will not only be accurate and cover all the statistical investigations required by law, but will be out on time.

Damage by Floods.

The heavy rainfall which began Sunday night and continued until Tuesday evening caused the streams to become swollen and much damage done. The towns along the West Branch suffered almost as much as in the June flood.

A portion of Williamsport was inundated by the overflow from Grafin's Run, a stream that passes through the centre of the city from north to south. About noon it broke its bounds, flooding Centre Street, Park Avenue, Railroad Avenue, Hepburn Street, Pine Street, Fifth and Sixth Streets, and a portion of East Fourth Street. The water rose rapidly, flooding many cellars and on Park Avenue, between Hepburn and Centre Streets, the people were compelled to vacate their first floors and move upstairs. The culverts, through which the creek passes, were unable to accommodate the quantity of water pouring through them, and for a time the people had a repetition of the experience of June 1, though on a smaller scale. Some people left their houses in rowboats, while others used floating sections of sidewalks as rafts. The flood began receding Tuesday afternoon, and by dark the streets were clear of water. The new Market Street bridge which spans the West Branch at Williamsport was swept away Tuesday night at 11.20. The river was beginning to overflow its banks, and the people were in fear of inundation.

Lycoming County will loose twelve or fifteen bridges, most of which were built since the June flood.

A portion of the railroad bridge of the P. & E. at Montgomery Station was carried off, as also the bridge of the P. & R at Muncy and West Milton. The Northern Central looses bridges Nos. 1, 2, 8, 18 and 19. All railroad communication between Sunbury and Williamsport was cut off Tuesday night.

In Centre County the streams were higher than the great flood of June.

Many streets were flooded in Harrisburg by the overflow of the banks of the Paxton Creek.

A mass meeting of Catholics was held at the Academy of Music in Baltimore on Sunday night, which was presided over by Cardinal Gibbons. The meeting was in favor of high license, and it was successful in a remarkable degree.

An address and a series of resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted. They are as follows:

The Catholic clergy and laity of Baltimore, keenly alive to the gigantic evils of intemperance in the use of intoxicating drinks, evils which menace the dearest interests of religion and thus imperil the well-being and stability of the state and of society at large; justly alarmed, moreover, at the fearful havoc wrought in so many of their co-religionists by this deadly vice, which thwarts the best efforts of the Church in their behalf and renders fruitless her holiest influences; and casting about for a means which will, if not at once and entirely cure, at least greatly diminish the evil, and thus pave the way to a complete moral restoration, believe that they see this remedy in what is known as the high license movement

If they have up to the present time been backward in putting in the well-meant efforts of so many of the most distinguished and upright of their fellow citizens in this holy cause, it has arisen certainly neither from ignorance of the magnitude of the danger nor from a lack of heartfelt interest in the work of averting it, but solely from the fear of compromising the sacred interests of truth by accepting certain positions which were sometimes found to be the concomitants of such movements. The high license movement affords them the opportunity so long desired, and they therefore hasten to range themselves alongside their friends and neighbors in this sacred battle of humanity. Resolved, as the sense of this meeting.

THE ONLY REMEDY.

First—That high license at present the only feasible and the only hopeful means of stemming the deluge of vices and crimes of which drunkeness is the frightful source

Second—That to make the remedy really effective the license should be put so high as to make it practically prohibitory as regard the multitude of low saloons, which are demoralizing and brutalizing the poor, who more than any other class need the help and comforts of religion to make their hard lot endurable.

Thirdly—That a high license will not merely secure all the good aimed at by the movement, but certain restrictions should be enacted as to the time and place of sale, and the character of those who may be permitted to carry on the traffic. Thus, the number of the saloons in any one radius should be limited by statute; they should not be suffered too near to churches or schools. The excellent Sunday law of our city upon this point should be rigidly enforced and failure upon the part of the authorities to carry out the law should be summarily punished; the license to sell at all should be issued to none but persons of tried character who can be depended upon to use their privelege in the interest of sobriety and public order, and finally the violation of the law in any of these points should work either temporary or perpetual forfeiture of the license, according to the number of such violations.

Fourth—That this assembly pledges themselves to do all in their power to secure this most desirable end and to work for it with tongue and pen until their efforts are crowned with success.

Conshocken's Broken Bank.

PLAIN TALK OF A BONDSMAN OF THE DEFAULTING CASHIER.

Horatio S. Stephens, of Norristown who is one of the sureties upon the official bond of William Henry Cresson, the defaulting and missing cashier of the Tradesmen's National Bank of Conshohocken, has announced his purpose to test the question of his liability in the courts upon the ground that he was a bondsman for Cresson in his single capacity as cashier of the bank and he cannot be held responsible for the defalcation of a cashier who in addition is book-keeper, vice president and board of directors through the negligence of the elected directors whose failure in their duties invited fraud and peculation, and who authorized a publication in July last of the bank's condition which was absolutely false.

It has been discovered that in 1883 the bank declared an unearned dividend of $5,000, and unearned dividends since amounting to a total of $35,000, which accounts not only for that much of the deficit with which Cresson is charged, but for the failure of the directors to make the slightest effort to arrest him. No thorough examination of the affairs of the bank, it is claimed has yet been made and it is beginning to be believed that so gross has been the negligence of the directors that they have made themselves legally responsible for the whole deficit to the stockholders.

Indeed there seems a probability that the directors had been aware of the $90,000 deficiency, all of which they have put on Cresson, for more than a year. At that time he was confined to his house for weeks with a sickness that seemed likely to prove fatal During this time a clerk of nineteen years and a teller of twenty-one conducted all the business of the bank. If Cresson stole all of the money the question arises why his alleged fraudulent bookkeeping did not disclose itself at the time.

Reducing Postage Rates.

The recent conference of Postoffice officials held in Washington was for the purpose of considering the subject of reducing the rate of postage on general merchandise and wiping out fourth class matter altogether. It was proposed to include merchandise in third class matter and carry it at the rate of two ounces for one cent, instead of one cent per ounce, as at present. Under the new arrangement the three classes would be divided as follows: First-class, letters and postal cards; second newspapers and periodicals sent out to regular subscribers by publishers, third-class, everything else that is mailable. The matter is still under consideration.

Catarrh

May affect any portion of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, and the most liable to be neglected. It cannot be cured by local applications. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the catarrh, and soon effects a permanent cure. At the same time Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the whole system, and makes one feel renewed in strength and health. If you suffer from catarrh, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Ringing Noises Impure Blood

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold." MRS. G. B. GIBB, 1029 Eighth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

The administration has given Dr. J. J. Brown a slight remembrance. He has been appointed as medical examiner, for pensioners.

A large and handsome new safe has recently been placed in the office at Harman & Hassert's shops. Its weight is 4500 pounds, and it was made at York, Pa.

Mr. Edwin Roe and Miss Eliza Rouch, were married at the Reformed parsonage by Rev. W. T. Aumen, Monday evening, November 18th, at 8. p. m.

G. W. Bertsch always keeps right along with the procession. He has recently put in one of the nickel frames for displaying goods in one of his show windows, and has it tastily arranged.

Judge Hand, of Lackawanna county, after an interval of twelve years, during which time he occupied the bench of the county courts and supreme court, has resumed the practice of law.

The School Furnishing Co will suspend a number of their workmen this Saturday evening. The Company has filled all their orders for the year, and are now working on stock for next season.

One of Lowenberg's show windows contains a new nickel plated rack for the display of hats, shirts, ties, &c., recently put in. It adds greatly to the appearance of the window.

John F. Meginness has resigned as editor of the Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin after a service of many years. He is an able writer, and a local historian of celebrity.

William C. Johnston Esq. was re-elected Register and Recorder of Montour County at the late election by a majority of 846, the largest vote received by any candidate. Mr. Johnston has held theoffice for many years.

Oysters served in all styles at short notice at Housel & Herbine's.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held on Tuesday at 3 p. m. Nov. 26th.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures catarrh by expelling impurity from the blood, which is the cause of the complaint. Give it a trial.

The Water Company will soon lay an extension of the main pipes down to the carpet factory, on Fifth street.

Samuel Shaffer intends to erect two dwellings on the site of the old carriage factory on Iron street.

Orders for fish or oysters by mail will receive prompt attention at Housel & Herbines.

The syndicate that has been talking about the purchase of the Hoyt farm is now fully organized, and the money raised. This is another boom for Bloomsburg.

"Our German Ward" was witnessed by a large audience at the Opera House last Friday night. It was the best play of the season, and the orchestra was excellent.

Owing to indistinctness of copy a typographical error occurred in our report of the wedding at St. Gabriel's church last week. The name of the groom is Towle, not Howle.

Andrew Lunger died suddenly at William Yohe's in Orange township on Saturday, aged 68 years. He was a member of Co. D. 84th Regiment P. V. A delegation of Ent Post G. A. R. attended the funeral on Tuesday.

FOR RENT.—The room on the second floor of the COLUMBIAN Building, now occupied by the Town Council, will be vacant April 1st, 1890. It is a large, light room, steam heat, gas, and water on same floor. Inquire of Geo. E. Elwell. tf.

Rev. Joseph B. Wolff, of Glen Rock, York county, will preach in the Lutheran church next Sunday, November 24th, morning and evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and hear him.

A large flock of ducks flew south over the town last Thursday. Several hunters started out after them, but no report has been made of their success. It is said that when the ducks go south the indications are for cold weather.

William Steel, father of the notorious Mrs. Eva Ray Hamilton, was sentenced to a year's imprisonment in the penitentiary last week at Tunkhannock. He was convicted of shooting at a young man from Bradford Co. with intent to kill.

The Central Pennsylvania Telephone and Supply Company will soon put a through telephone line between Wilkes-Barre and Williamsport, passing through Muncy and Shickshinny. Mr. Bailey passed turough town on Wednesday on his way to Muncy to look over the proposed route.

Several peals of thunder were noticeable in the storm of Tuesday. This is certainly a remarkable season, while we are approaching winter here we are visited with thunder storms and in the milder climates of the southern states, the trains are blockaded by snow storms.

A corps of engineers, thirteen in number, spent Sunday a week at Central. They are surveying a road for the Lehigh Valley R. R. Co. over the North Mountain, which will run within a mile of Ganoga Lake and connect with the Harvey's Lake branch. It is supposed that the corps was making its way to Muncy Valley.

One of the latest fads among women is the "dress album," wherein samples of all the dresses worn by the owner are gummed or sewed. Chronological order is observed in the arrangement of these cuttings, and under each piece is inscribed the date on which the dress was first worn and any interesting reminiscences of the occasion.

We are informed that John H. Willey, a prominent merchant of Greenwood, who has been annoyed for several years with a tumor of considerable size on his hip, had it successfully removed by Dr. C. W. Ammerman, of the above named place on the 3rd inst.—Sussex (Del.) Journal.

A reception was given to Rev. Henry L. Jones of Wilkesbarre, last week by his parishioners on the occasion of the fifteenth anniversary of his pastorate. A few years ago Mr. Jones declined a call to Brooklyn, where his salary would have been much larger, and in recognition of this fact, one of the features af the reception was the presentation to him by the people of St. Stephens' church, of a purse of $6500.

Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin Co. will be the largest ever in this place, it comprises 30 first class artists. They have their own private baggage car, their own horses and wagons, a double band of white and colored musicians, a steam calliope. You will miss a treat if you fail to see the performance. Opera House this (Thursday) evening, November 21st.

We clip the following from one of our exchanges but cannot vouch for its truthfulness: The Cameron county Press mentions that the scalp bounty law has been declared unconstitutional, and no more premiums on scalps will be paid. It is important that justices who are in the habit of cashing these orders and then getting the money back from the county, should make a note of this as it may be the means of saving them several dollars.

The following letters are held at Bloomsburg, Pa., post-office, and will be sent to the dead letter office, December 3, 1889.

Mr. A. Aucker, Daniel Bauman, Squire Cogan, William Earp, W. C. Fry, Mrs. Lavina Melick, M. L. Meyers, Miss Sarah Shetler, T. H. Tubbs, A. R. Young, Mr. Chas. Zenart (3).

Persons calling for these letters please say, they were advertised Nov. 19, 1889.

One cent will be charged on each letter advertised.

Drunkenness—Liquor Habit—In all the World there is but one cure Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck Thousands of drunkards have been cured who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effect results from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Send for circular and full particulars. Address in confidence GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race Street, Cincinnati, O.—10-25 1y

The fair and suppper to be given at Evan's Hall this week Friday and Saturday by the ladies of the Episcopal church will no doubt be well attended. A great quantity of fancy articles, as well as things for use, have been made up by skilful hands, and will be offered for sale at reasonable prices, and it will be an excellent opportunity for those who have not the time to work for themselves, to purchase. Many goods suitable for Christmas gifts will be found upon the tables. The fair will continue during the afternoon and evening of each day.

Supper will be ready at 5 o'clock each afternoon, and will continue as long as there are any appetites to appease. To name the food that will be served would include many dainty dishes for which some of Bloomsburg's best cooks are famous. There will be an abundance, and that of the most delicious kind, and the price is only 35 cents. As the money goes into a fund for the erection of a building that will be an ornament to the town, every body ought to attend.

On Sunday night some malicious person committed an act for which he ought to spend a term in the penitentiary. William Rabb's new store room is completed, and nearly ready for occupancy by his son-in-law, George Ringler. The plate-glass for the show windows has not arrived, which has caused some delay in opening. The show windows extend out on the pavement about 14 inches, for which Mr. Rabb obtained a permit from the Council, but there have been some complaints heard. On Sunday night the frame work of the windows was whittled and cut with a knife in such a manner as to deface it badly, if not to render it necessary to put in new frames. Such an act is a high handed outrage, and the entire community should unite in ferreting out the criminal.

When in town go to Housel & Herbine's to eat. Jacoby's Old Stand.

Stetson's Big Uncle Tom's Cabin Company is at Kelly's Front Street Theater this week. They have all the accessories for producing the play in the most approved style, and were highly successful in pleasing the audience. It is singular how this piece draws, and how the audience laugh over it. There is no necessity for speaking at length over the presentation last night. It pleased the majority greatly. Topsy was good, so was Uncle Tom, so were Eva, Marks, the dogs and the singing. It was a good entertainment, and the audience which had come to laugh, laughed heartily and were satisfied. The company has a double band and orchestra, composed of white and colored musicians, two Topsies, two Marks, two Ophelias, Eva and her pony, "Prince," the Lone Star Quartette and African mandolin players, not excluding a pack of savage-looking bloodhounds. —The Baltimore American.

This Mammoth Troupe will be in the Opera House, Bloomsburg, this (Thursday) evening November 21st.

Notes From Espy.

The above named place is a beautiful village of about 500 inhabitants, situated on the North Branch of the Susquehanna. It is a desirable place to live on account of the healthy atmosphere surrounding it, as well as its proximity to the prosperous city of Bloomsburg.

In comparison with other villages of the same size there has been little sickness and few deaths during the last six months. It also compares with other places of its size in respect to the age of its inhabitants. There being not a few of its citizens well advanced in years. And the children and youth are as fair and ruddy as you can find them anywhere. The people here are proud of their homes, which is manifest by the spirit of repairing and painting their houses that actuated them during the past several weeks. There is however, room for improvement in this respect, and, according as they become able, Espy will no doubt enhance its appearance.

Owing to low rents and the facilities for securing fuel at greatly reduced rates, as well as many other things needful in the home, this village affords great advantages to persons who can find employment in neighboring towns and cities. The Electric Railway from the city of Bloomsburg to this place and Afton, now under consideration, will no doubt, prove a great benefit to residents of these beautiful villages, in bringing families hither which otherwise would not think of such a movement.

Espy is, at present, blessed with good schools and wide-awake churches. The day schools are well attended, and the teachers are doing thorough work. It is to be hoped that the patrons will not fail to visit these schools, and by so doing encourage both the teachers and pupils.

The Sabbath Schools are also aggressive, and a good work is being done for the Lord.

On last Sabbath evening The Children's Praise Services conducted by Prof. Kurzenknabe of Harrisburg, in the Lutheran church was one of intense interest and delight. So were also those at New Columbia and Buckhorn conducted by the same person on the same day. Prof Kurzenknabe is an adept in the art of music, he sings and teaches others to sing, with the heart and in the Spirit. He gives expression to what he renders, and, as a consequence, the desirable effect is produced His remarks were pointed, and well designed to awaken a new interest in the Service of Praise. He made impressions that will last long as we live, and whenever he returns to this community he will be greeted cordially by hosts of friends.

On Thursday the 21st at 3 p. m. Mr. Charles R. Miller, of Plymouth, Luzerne Co. Pa., and Miss Almeda Trump of Espy, were united in holy wedlock at the bride's home, and in the presence of their relatives and friends by the Rev. A. R. Glaze. In entering upon the voyage of life this happy and promising young couple have the best wishes of their many friends.

During the last week we were threatened with a conflagration at both ends our village, fire having broken out in the house of Mr. Stephen Pohe, and also in the house of Miss Rachael Richie, but as an evidence of our well equipped fire department, which is prepared for an emergency, the flames were extinguished before any very serious damage was done, and Espy yet is safe.

There is a man in our town
And he is very wise, sir,
When e're he doesn't feel just right
One remedy he tries, sir.
It's just the thing to take in spring
The blood to purify,
He tells his friends, and nothing else
Is he induced to try because, having taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to cleanse his system, tone it up, and enrich the blood, and finding that it always produces the desired result, he considers that he would be foolish to experiment with anything else. His motto is, "Prove all things and hold fast to that which is good." That's why he pins his faith to the "Golden Medical Discovery."

KIRBY—KUHN.

Dr. G. Stewart Kirby of Mauch Chunk and Miss Emma D. Kuhn, daughter of I. S. Kuhn of this place, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents, Wednesday morning at half past nine. The wedding was a very quiet one—there being present only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. L. Shindel, pastor of the Lutheran church, at Danville. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, sent in as tokens of friendship. At eleven o'clock the happy couple took the train for New York, Philadelphia and other places of interest. They will reach Mauch Chunk Tuesday of next week, where a furnished house awaits them, and where they expect to make their home.

Death While Gunning.

Mr. Jacob Cole of Iola was killed suddenly Sunday last by the accidental discharge of a gun in his own hands. The evening before he called upon a sick child of Henry Meyers, and the child expressed a desire to have a rabbit, saying he thought he could eat a rabbit. Mr. Cole replied that he would try and shoot him one even if it was Sunday. He started in pursuit of a rabbit, and after in the woods some time, he met four other gunners, one of whom was Clark Thomas. Mr. Cole was standing upon a stump, and Mr. Thomas about fifteen feet from him Suddenly Col e's gun discharged, and Thomas looking about saw him fall from the stump. An examination showed that the contents of the gun entered one side of the mouth and ploughed its way through the cheek and out of the top of his head. The accident is supposed to have been caused by the gun slipping and the hammer coming in contact with the stump. Death was instantaneous. The deceased was about 45 years of age, and leaves a wife to mourn his sudden departure.

East Benton.

A Distressing Accident.—Last Tuesday a week David Yost, Esq., of Van Camp was very unfortunate, getting his leg both broken and out of place. The accident occurred during the raising of his son George's blacksmith shop at Bendertown. Several others were less severely injured. When quite a young man, David and William Kauff were felling trees on a "new ground," when one was inclined to fall in a contrary direction, David placed his axe against the tree, pushing with all his might and the tree yielding to his efforts, he impulsively stepped forward just as William brought a full and sweeping stroke with his axe, cutting the former's leg off just below the knee. Nothing held it but a little skin, and his leg dangled about as they carried him to the house. Anyone, never having seen the scar, nor knowing of the circumstance would say upon sight, that his leg was every whit cut off. With great efforts it was again healed without amputation. The entire community sympathize with Mr. Yost, no less in this than in his former misfortune, being now crippled in both legs and about 59 years of age.

Tice Naple's wife presented him with a bouncing big baby boy of 9½ lbs. weight, last Friday night a week ago.

Alex Thomson, a Swede and former employee on the W. & W. R. R. has been blasting out stumps with dynamite in this locality. I tell you the stumps have "got to git" under dynamite treatment.

Church Fair.

The Ladies of the Presbyterian Church will hold a fair in the basement of the church beginning on Thanksgiving day Nov. 28th, continuing through the remainder of the week, opening each day at nine o'clock. Booths will be arranged to display the different articles.

At the housekeepers' booth will be found all kinds of kitchen and household articles.

The children's booth will be made attractive by numerous and varied dollies, &c., as well as wearing apparel for the little folks.

The fancy articles will consist of all kinds of fancy goods both useful and ornamental

Another attraction will be the serving of chocolate in Japanese cups. The cups to be given to the purchaser of the chocolate.

At the candy booth will be home made candy put up in fancy baskets by the pound, or sold in larger or smaller quantities.

There will be a display of toilet articles at which booth, the prices as well as the quality and variety will be an attraction.

Articles can be duplicated and orders taken by the ladies for anything found in the above named booths.

A Thanksgiving dinner will be served on Thursday the opening day of the fair from 12 to 3. P. M.

MENU.

Fine Instruments on Fine Ships.

As to music, the owners of the City of Paris, City of New York and Teutonic have shown the same consideration for the comfort of their passengers that they have in everything else. The two former ships are each provided with an upright piano by Mason & Hamlin, furnished in a superb case of cherry inlaid in birds-eye maple, the design harmonizing beautifully with the room itself. These pianos contain the improved mode of stringing, invented and patented by Mason & Hamlin, which is said to peculiarly fit them for withstanding the ravages of the sea. The Paris and New York are each provided with a two-manual pedal base organ, also by Mason & Hamlin, furnished in an exquisitely chaste case of white enamel. The salon of the Teutonic contains a piano and also one of those marvelously beautiful and artistic instruments, viz, the Liszt organ, by Mason & Hamlin. The case of this instrument is truly a work of art. It is of old oak, highly polished, with trimmings in gold and dark brown, the total effect harmonizing beautifully with the architecture of the room. It is to be regretted that America can boast no such ships as these, but it is some comfort to the patriotic that the magnificent instruments on these ships are all of American make.—N. Y. Sun.

My Wife Said

to me last night: How much do you suppose we have paid out for doctors and medicine in the last year? I told her I did not know. To doctors I have paid nothing, and five dollars' worth of Sulphur Bitters has kept health in our family. L. ANDREWS, 12 Bowdin street, Boston.

Guava.

The mountains were quite white with snow on Friday last. Some of our hunters on beholding the beautiful snow, set to work packing their knapsacks and cleaning their old deer slayers.

Our "Operator" took it in his head, that he could bring back some venison too, if he went to the mountains. He procured Esq. Laubach's trusty rifle, and started for the hunting region on Thursday afternoon, saying, "if he only got the gun where the deer was, it would undoubtedly bring him the reward for his journey, without much aid on his part." Of course, we are satisfied that the gun would not get the fever if he did.

Now is the time to fill your coal houses for the coming winter. There is plenty of coal for sale at both Andrew Laubach's store, and C. F. Mann's near the station. There will be undoubtedly an advance in coal just as soon at the cold weather sets in.

Our community was again visited with the angel of death; taking away Miss Rhoda Gibertson, a young lady of twenty or twenty five summers. The sympathy of the community is with the bereaved family.

Joe Fritz who has been very low with typhoid fever is slowly recovering. We hope to see him able to resume his work again.

Josephus O. Hess is not any better, and is unconscious most of the time. He has been unable to leave his bed for the last two months, and we are afraid it will be a long time before he is able to be about, but it is hoped he will recovered soon.

John G. Laubach and a number of other farmers, are busily hauling hay to Jamison City. The City makes quite a market for country produce, if they take trade.

The item published in the Sentinel last week should be corrected for there is a grand mistake. There is some attraction at Benton for B. R. L. we have no reason to doubt that, for he has brothers and uncles living there. But expecting a wedding soon, as the parties are known, belongs entirely to a different party, we do not wish to be so bold, as to have it made public just at the present time. Further particulars will be made known in a short time. There is a certain young gentleman received an oar blade, signifying an emblem of a long and prosperous journey through life, after he settles down in married life.

Our school is prospering very well under the skillful management of John Fritz. Has a very large school with an average attendance of 45 scholars. John is at present boarding home some 2½ miles which he walks every morning and evening. He expects to board at home until the roads get too bad to travel, then he will board with his brother who lives a half mile from the schoolhouse. W. F.

A Successful Book for Agents.

The rush of agents for Mary A. Livermore's famous new book, "My story of the War," is unprecedented, and its sale is increasing every day. This magnificently illustrated work is not, as might be supposed from its title, a history of the war, but is Mrs. Livermore's own account of her four years' personal work and experiences as a nurse in hospitals, camps and on the battle-field. Of course the book is full of the most profound pathos, and the Christian Woman truthfully says of it, "We care not how deep the well may be, tears will be drawn from it and fall upon these pages." Its sale offers to men and women a rare opportunity to make money. It is published by A. D. Worthington & Co., Hartford Conn., who advertise for men and women agents in another column of this paper.

How Made a Lien.

City, county, borough and township school officers should not lose sight of the fact that under a recent act of the Legislature, no tax levied by them can remain a lien on real estate longer than two years from the time of assessments, unless the same is recorded in the Prothonotary's office, and no lien so entered shall remain a lien for a longer period than five years, unless the same is revived and continued by a writ of scire facis within the said period and duly prosecuted to judgment.

Honest.

Is these days of adulteration and fraud, in all branches of business and pursuits, it is pleasing to know that there is one medicine prepared that is strictly pure. Such a medicine is Sulphur Bitters in curing scrofula; you can depend on them every time. W. B. EVERITS, A. M., Charleston S. C.

Sauce For the Goose etc.

The Sullivan Review gets off the following: "We are not particularly friendly to peddlers, but we do hope that people will continue to patronize them until merchants quit sending to the city for job printing. The Fever Epidemic in Lock Haven.

Th sanitary outlook at Lock Haven is far from encouraging. City Engineer James T. Brown died on the 13, of typhoid fever, and deaths and funerals are now of daily occurance. The local physicians are too busy to talk, and the druggists are kept busy filling their prescriptions, showing that the fever epidemic is on the increase. The Mayor has ordered a car-load of lime from Bellfonte to distribute all over the city for disinfecting purposes.

Card of Thanks.

If the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam should publish a card of thanks, containing expressions of gratitude which come to him daily from those who have been cured of severe throat and lung troubles by the use of Kemp's Balsam, it would fill a fair-sized book. How much better to invite all to call on any druggist and get a free sample bottle that you may test for yourself its power. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

We Would Rather Pay Our Bills.

The law compelling a delinquent to come before the courts and take the "poor debtor's oath" is being more generally enforced now in different parts of the country than formerly, so many parties owing bills and never intending to pay them have induced our attorneys to bring them before the courts. The penalty for purgery or false swearing, or contempt of court in refusing to take the oath generally has the desired effect.

Have you a father? Have you a mother? Have you a son or daughter, sister or a brother who has not yet taken Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the guaranteed remedy for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Croup and all Throat and Lung troubles? If so, when a sample bottle is gladly given to you free by any druggist, and the large size costs only 50c and $1.00.

A Good Looking Face

We like to see. Yet Erysipelas disfigures the features and the disease is as dangerous as it is repulsive. It is sometimes called "St. Anthony's Fire," and often ends in sudden death. S. B. Carpenter, Grandville, N. Y., had it in both legs, and was cured by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Rondout, N. Y. This medicine excels all others for the blood.

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Nov. 18, 1889.

Do you realize, madame, what sort of a Dress Goods gathering we have?

If you want a stuff at 25c, or 37½c, or 50c, or 75c, or $1, or at any other price up to the creamiest quality that crosses the sea we have it; and not simply one lone, lorn piece of it, heaps, if it is a sort that it's wise for you to buy.

Would you rather pick from such a stock, or from a lean lot pinched in everything but prices?

The Dress Goods part of the store is at its fullest now. You can put in an hour there and see a new Winter stuff for almost every clock tick. Prices are awry like this:

40-inch silk-and-wool basket-weave Plaids, royally rich in colorings, some with ombre effects, 75c; the $1.25 quality.

40-inch broken Plaids, with every stripe that forms the plaid hair-lined with contrasting silk, 65c; the $1 quality.

40-inch Alma Envers, a fine surah twill, hard, close surface, 75c; we never heard of it under $1. All street shades.

40-inch French Sebastopol, 50c; the 75c quality.

40-inch French Alma Cloth, 50c; the $1 quality.

40-inch all-wool Cashmere, 50c; best quality, weight and colors we know of at the price.

And yet hundreds for more money or less, and each one as worth your thought.

That 72-inch German Table Damask is quite as wonderful. The weight and quality are better than we ever had before at 87½c.

Here are three Women's Stockinet Jackets, $4.50, $5, $6. We have sold the same shapes in poorer stuffs at $8 or $10.

Well made, well fitting blue and black Beaver Newmarkets, with stitched edges, $7; with braid binding or reveres in front, $8. The around-town prices would be about $8 and $10.

New books come to us as fast as they are published. The New-Book table is always covered with their skirmish line. Here's a handful from the popular late comers:

Miscellaneous:

Florida Days. Margaret Deland. $1.
Aspect of the Earth (Geological Phenomena.) Shaler. $1.
Winter in Algeria. Bridgman. $1.50.
The Viking Age. Paul Du Chaillu. 2 vols. $5.50.
Recent Economic Changes. Wells. $1.50
John Davis the Navigator. 90c.
The Political Problem. Sidckney. 75c.

Fiction:

A Little Journey in the World. Charles Dudley Warner. $1.50
Emanuel. A story of the Messiah. $1.10.
Jupiter Lights. Constance F. Woolson. 90c.
A Reputed Changeling. Miss Yonge. 75c.
Standish of Standish. A story of the Pilgrims. 90c.
Last Assembly Ball. 90c.
A Summer in a Canon. $1.10
Thee's Days. A Midsummer Love Story. 75c.

Our new Book Catalogue will be ready in about ten days—80 pages of the best standard and Holiday Books at Wanamaker Book prices. If you are thinking of a Book for Christmas or for your library, you ought to have the Catalogue. Your name and address on a postal will bring it.

What is Overloading a Horse, and How Proved.

The following taken from "Bishop on Statutory Crimes"—edition of 1873, Page 689—is believed to be sound law, the world over, on the above subject.

It was written by Mr. Angell, in reviewing a decision of a Massachusetts Court in 1868 that there was no cruelty because other horses of the same weight were able to draw the load in question. It was the first and last decision of the kind ever rendered in Massachusetts.

"Must an animal be worked until he breaks a blood vessel or drops dead, before the law takes cognizance? Is the horse to be strained, or worked to the extreme limit of his strength, before such straining or working becomes a cruelty (that is, before the act of his master becomes 'overloading?') Can an expert, or any number of experts, say what is the limit of strength or endurance of any horse by simply knowing his weight? It seems to me that these questions can be easily answered. Horses, like men, are of different ages, constitutions, temperaments, formation and degrees of strength. One horse, just like one man, may be twice as fast, twice as tough, as another precisely of the same weight; and inasmuch as horses, like men, are liable to a great variety of sickness, and suffer, just like men, from previous overworking and from heat, want of proper rest, food, water, shelter and care, it follows that the same horse, like the same man, may be able to perform without injury more labor in one day than another.

"Can a thousand experts prove that all men of a given weight or size are equally competent, on every day of the year, to perform a given labor? Can their testimony establish how much load a man of given weight should carry, and how far he should carry it on a given day, without regard to whether the man is old or young, sick or well, strong or weak, tough or tender, already tired or rested, full-fed or starved, or the day hot or cold? And does not precisely the same reason apply to the horse,—that what one horse can do one day has no force in showing what another ought to do on another day, unless you show the weather, age, strength, toughness and bodily condition of the two to be precisely similar? I say, then, that it is just as impossible for any number of experts, knowing only the weight or size of a horse and nothing of his age, health, strength, toughness and bodily condition, to establish what is, or is not, overloading him, as it would be, knowing only the size or weight of a man and nothing of his age, health, strength, toughness or bodily condition, to establish what is or what is not an overload for him.

"How, then, are we to determine when a horse is overloaded? Just exactly and precisely as we determine when a man is overloaded. First, we are to take his own evidence. If a man stops and says, "I am overloaded, I am working too hard, I feel that the task put upon me is too heavy," that is evidence. So when the horse, ordinarily kind and willing to pull, comes with a heavy load to a rise of land and, after one or two efforts, stops and says as plainly as he can speak it, "I am overloaded, I am working too hard, I feel that the task put upon me is too heavy," that is evidence; and there is no court or jury, or man with the heart of a man, who will not recognize it as such. Besides, the signs of overwork are just as visible in the horse as the man. No magistrate or juror would have any difficulty in deciding in his own mind whether a case to which his attention might be attracted in our public streets was or was not a case of cruelty.

"Is not, then, the testimony of competent, intelligent and credible bystanders, who see how the horse looks and acts, and his bodily condition, health, and capacity to perform the labor required, the best evidence that can possibly be obtained? Where can you get better? And when disinterested and intelligent witnesses, who are present and see and hear all that is said and done in a given case, voluntarily leave their ordinary avocations and come into court and testify that they are fully satisfied that the case is a clear case of cruelty, can such evidence be overbalanced by that of any number of experts who are not present, see nothing that occurs, know nothing of the age, health, strength, or bodily condition of the horse at the time, and who base their calculations simply upon the avoirdupois weight of the animal? It is perfectly evident, then, I say, that the highest and best evidence which any court or jury can ask or possibly obtain in a case of overloading, overworking, or overdriving, is the evidence of the horse himself, as interpreted by those present when the cruelty is inflicted.

"Cruelty begins very far short of taking the extreme strength of the animal. God has given to men and animals an excess of strength, to be husbanded carefully and used occasionally. But to task that strength to its full limit unnecessarily is against nature, breaks down the man or the animal before his or its time, and is a cruelty against which men, having speech and reason, may protect themselves, but against which animals, having neither speech nor reason like men, must look to them for protection."

An Unique Feature of the Pennsylvania Limited.

The Pennsylvania Limited, performing a daily service between New York and Chicago, needed but one feature to complete the perfection of its appointment. The men had their porter and barber, and now the ladies have their maid and hair-dresser. The introduction of the maids is as novel as it is a unique feature. It exists on no other regular train in the world, and the ladies who travel will appreciate it heartily. The maids are colored women and there is one employed on each train They are especially charged to look after the comfort of ladies, children, and invalids. They are to assist the ladies in making their toilets, to dress their hair, and serve as a hand-maid to them in the fullest sense of the term.

They will have an eye to the children, and have a care for invalids and ladies who may travel without a male escort. The convenience and comfort of having an attendant of one's own sex will be cordially appreciated by timid women and those who are inexperienced in travel. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the Pulman Palace Car Company deserve great credit for their persistent efforts to enhance the comfort and pleasure of their patrons.

A LOVELY WOMAN

overheard one say of her, "By Heaven she's painted!" "Yes," retorted she indignantly, "and by heaven only!" Ruddy health mantled her cheek, yet this beautiful lady, once thin and pale, and suffering from a dry, hacking cough, night-sweats, and spitting of blood, seemed destined to fill a consumptive's grave. After spending hundreds of dollars on physicians, without benefit, she tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; her improvement was soon marked, and in a few months she was plump and rosy again,—a perfect picture of health and strength.

This wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery," now world-famed as a remedy for consumption, which is really lung-scrofula, is not only an acknowledged remedy for that terribly fatal malady, when taken in time and given a fair trial, but also for all forms of Scrofulous Skin and Scalp Diseases, as White Swellings, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas and kindred ailments. All scaly, crusty, itching, troublesome eruptions yield readily to its curative powers. It invigorates the liver, enriches the blood and promotes all the bodily functions. It is the only liver, blood and lung remedy, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee that it will do all that it is recommended to, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

$500 REWARD offered for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head, by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Only 50 cents. Sold by druggists everywhere.

An Attack of Gravel.

The Terrible Suffering of a Woman at 60.—How She was Happily Cured.

There is nothing I now enjoy that I do not owe to having used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y. My troubles began in my kidneys and from which I never expected to recover. First there were pains in my back, I was feverish, with no appetite and could not sleep, I was compelled to use a cane, and finally got so weak that I could not stand alone. The distress in my back was terrible. I was burning up with a fever or constantly shivering as if cold. My physicians said which was alarming information. To add to my affliction after I had been ill about two years, I had a bad attack of Gravel. When this made its appearance my physician gave up my case, and I resigned myself to die. I had four doctors attend me, the best in the country, yet I constantly grew worse. Six years ago last June, how well I remember the time! I saw Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy advertised in our paper. After using one bottle I threw away my cane and went to New York on a visit, and three bottles cured me. I have never had a return of Gravel, nor of the pains or weakness in the back, and though I am over sixty years of age I am as I was in my prime. I do all my own work, and rarely know what it is to be tired. I keep the medicine in the house and give it to my grandchildren, and recommend it whenever I can. When physicians and all of the various remedies I had taken failed, Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy did—it stayed the disease, and made me a strong, vigorous woman.

I HAD BRIGHT'S DISEASE,

Now Vigorous and Strong

CATARRH,

Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N. B.—For catarrhal discharges peculiar to females (whites) this remedy is a specific. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. DIXON & SON, 304 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.

Sufferers from catarrhal troubles should read the above carefully.

ASTHMA CAN BE CURED. A trial bottle sent Free to anyone afflicted. Dr. TAFT BRO., Rochester, N. Y.

11-22-4-4t.

Must "Season" Awhile.

An old Henry County farmer, who is a Democrat, caught on to the Northwest the other day, and backing him into the corner of the drug store, said:

"One of my Republican neighbors had a dream the other night."

"Yes; well—"

"He dreamed he died, and on the other shore came to a fork in the road.

A sentinel in uniform stood there and challenged his politics. 'I am a Republican and voted for Protection last fall,' answered my neighbor. 'Turn to the left,' said the sentinel. 'it's but a little way; you'll see the smoke room soon.'"

"I see. What next happened?"

"Well, my neighbor saw a fierce looking devil roasting a sleek cunning-looking chap, and asked who he was. 'That, said the demon, as he piled on a fresh scuttle of coal and brimstone, "that is a protective tariff shouter. A little further on another devil with his sleeves up and sweat pouring down his temples, was tucking up the brands around a big fat fellow whose lard was running merrily down into the embers.

"And who is the fat victim?" inquired my neighbor in his dream.

"That," replied the devil, as he leaned his spade against a pile of coal and mopped his brow—"that is a protection monopolist." Further on still, in a corner not very hot, my neighbor saw a man hung up with a piece of binder twine."

"Indeed! that was singular."

"Yes, it struck my neighbor so, and he inquired of the devil what it meant.

"Jess! Well——"

"The devil who stood there told my neighbor that the hoodoo hung up with binder twine, was a Republican farmer who voted for Trusts and Protection last fall. He was too green to burn yet, and it was concluded that the best thing to do would be to hang him up and let him season awhile!"

An Old Nurse's Thirty Years Experience.

An old nurse of 30 years experience says that she has never used a wine that has had such a pleasing effect on her patients as that made by Mr Alfred Speer, of Passaic N. J. It is a pure article and people have confidence in it. Ask any noted physician. For sale by druggists.

FACTS OF CURIOUS INTEREST.

The two sides of the face are not alike. As a rule says a German professor, the want of symmetry is confined to the upper part of the face.

The pin factories of the United States manufacture about 18,000,000,000 of these diminutive but useful article every year,

London was first lighted in 1414 with private lanterns. In 1736 the lanterns were increased to 1,000,000 in number. In 1744 the first lighting act was passed. In 1820 gas was generally substituted for oil.

Taverns may be traced to the Thirteenth Century. According to Spelman, in the reign of King Edward III, only three taverns were allowed in London. Taverns were licensed in England in 1752.

The production of Bessemer steel ingots in the United States during 1886 was 2,269,190 gross tons. Of rails the output was computed at 1,562,410 gross tons. The production of Bessemer steel ingots in 1886 was 698,679 tons more than that of 1885, while the production of rails had increased by 602,039 tons.

The idea of building a great tower was suggested to M. Eiffel while building the Garabil Bridge in Southern France. The bridge is the loftiest bridge in the world, its central part being 350 feet above the water below. The two piers which support this lofty central span are miniature Eiffel towers the plan and construction being exactly the same. Mr. Eiffel is one of the greatest bridge builders in Europe.

Ringing Noises.

In the ears, sometimes a roaring buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh, try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

Grant's Arabian Horses.

THEY ARE STILL ALIVE AND NOT FOR SALE AT ANY PRICE.

From the Chicago Tribune.

When General Grant returned from his trip around the world he brought with him two beautiful Arabian stallions which had been presented him while en route through Arabia. During his stay in Washington and for a time thereafter General Grant had the animals quartered at the farm owned by General Beale, just outside the District of Columbia, in Maryland.

When he was attacked by his fatal sickness General Grant gave General Beale a choice of the two stallions to be his exclusive property. The other one General Grant gave to his son, Ulysses Grant.

"I have a picture in my house of Leopard, the beautiful Arabian stallion said the General. "Leopard has been kept at my Maryland farm most of the time since General Grant gave him to me.

"But in order that the noble animal may be of some service in assisting to furnish us with a high grade of saddle horses I have loaned him at various times to my friends in different parts of the country. He is now in the hands of my friend Mr. Howland, at Geneseo, N Y., where I am certain he will have good care. I am not aware that any of the get of Leopard have proved to be remarkable horses, but they are recognized chiefly as good saddle animals. Leopard is not for sale at any price, as I value him because he was a present from General Grant He is a beautifully mottled and marked animal, and he has been in good health and condition since I owned him."

Encourage the Home Paper.

Encourage your home papers and help build them up, for the culture, intelligence, the public sentiments of a city are often gauged by the character of the paper it supports. Every place of importance must have the mighty aid of the press, a journal that will publish to the world its advantages, its life, its wares its goods, its manufactories, and reflect like a mirror the acts, deeds, intentions and progress of its people. An able, dignified, conservative and progressive newspaper is of more real benefit toward advertising, stimulating and building a city than any other one agency or enterprise that she can possess.

Wolff's ACME Blacking

The women know a good thing and will have it, and the men ought to.

It preserves the leather and gives a brilliant polish. Water and snow slip off it as surely as off a duck's back. Men's shoes require dressing ONCE A WEEK—women's once a month, that's all. Worth trying, isn't it? It is also the best dressing for harness, on which it lasts THREE MONTHS.
